

The great and noble service gardeners can provide for all pollinating insects is to give them asylum — to make their garden a sanctuary for some of the insects that help run the world.

~ Eric Grissell

